Website Update

You may have noticed we have recently updated our website. This now includes easy access to online enrolments; instrument hire and other information and resources for the Schools Program (such as the handbook).

Edmodo

Most of our conductors have started using a program called Edmodo as a form of communication between students, parents, school liaisons, conductors and instrumental teachers. It is a fantastic resource that can be used to follow what students are up to each week in band as well as accessing online resources (such as practice parts, helpful video tutorials). As students only meet with their conductors once a week, Edmodo allows students to ask any questions at any time. It also helps students keep track of what they need to practice if they forgot or miss a rehearsal. It also has an easy to use app. To access, you need to create an account and consult your conductor for the group code. Visit www.edmodo.com for more information.
